Diane Craig

As President and founder of Corporate Class Inc., Diane Craig has been on a 30-year journey as an image expert. She has designed, created and implemented a comprehensive series of programs to polish the professional image of today's business leaders. Research shows that 93% of the time people are judged on how they look and act. If you refine your appearance, and master the details of etiquette and social intelligence, you will get on with the business at hand with greater self-confidence. And self-confidence can change everything.

Diane Craig

Diane has garnered international acclaim working with the who's who in the business world. She has consulted with political leaders and celebrities, prepped guests of Royal families and prepared attendees of the G20 summit. Her expertise is sought by Fortune 500 companies, universities, media and North America's top business schools.

Diane's programs provide the tools for executives and corporations to set themselves apart from the competition. Clients are taught how to present themselves in the best possible light, projecting credibility and instilling trust.
