Women

Gia D'Souza spent the first 15 years of her career working with several inspiring healthcare organizations and leaders in Canada and the UK to develop strategies that will modernize healthcare systems and lead to tangible improvements for patients and families. In 2019, after the birth of her third child, Gia sensed the need for a career change and transitioned into a new full-time role at home. Over the last two and a half years, Gia has given birth to a fourth baby, joined the Parents' Council at school, written a book of true birth stories, and completed an impressive list of DIY home projects. Gia is supported by her husband, her faith, and her unwavering belief in human kindness.
